Are you looking for a hyper driven and visionary product owner that inspires teams, leads with WHY, and drives real progress?

Hello!

If you find yourself looking for someone who can lead with vision, build the business case, define a value based roadmap, and is insanely passionate about building the right things at the right time for the right people... we should talk!

I'm the product owner type who starts with user experience and works back to engineering. I'll dig into the actual problems and develop solutions that are effective and most importantly - driven by clear goals and measurable success.
